Residential Aged Care Subsidies and Supplements

1. Australian National Aged Care Classification (AN-ACC)

The AN-ACC national efficient price is $243.10 for 2023–24.

The AN-ACC funding model is the mechanism through which Government funds providers to deliver an average of 200 care minutes per resident per day, which will become mandatory from 1 October 2023, increasing to 215 minutes from 1 October 2024.

The AN-ACC care funding model for permanent care recipients has three components:

- a variable component based on the care recipient’s AN-ACC classification.
- a fixed component (Base Care Tariff or BCT) to account for shared costs across all residents which vary by location and type of provider.
- the initial entry adjustment, a one-off adjustment payment for new residents.

The AN-ACC care funding model for respite care recipients has two components:

- a variable component based on the care recipient’s respite classification.
- the AN-ACC fixed component or BCT reflecting the characteristics of the facility (the BCT is the same for respite residents and permanent residents in the same facility)

Residential Aged Care Subsidy

These rates are applicable from 1 July 2023

4. Fixed component (Base Care Tariff or BCT) for services where funding is calculated based on occupied places – both permanent and respite care recipients

BCT Category	Services Australia Payment Statement code	NWAU	Funding Basis	Funding per occupied place
Standard MMM 1 – 4	Fixed subsidy – class 6	0.49	Occupied places	$119.12
Standard MMM 5	Fixed subsidy – class 7	0.55	Occupied places	$133.71
Specialised homeless	Fixed subsidy – class 5	0.92	Occupied places	$223.65

MMM is based on the 2019 Modified Monash Model | Australian Government Department of Health and Aged Care

5. Fixed component (Base Care Tariff or BCT) for services where funding is calculated based on operational places

BCT Category	Services Australia Payment Statement code	NWAU	Funding Basis	Notional funding per operational place*
Standard MMM 6 – 7	Fixed subsidy – class 3H	0.68 for first 29 places	Operational places	$165.308*
	Fixed subsidy – class 3L	0.52 for places 30 and above		$126.412*

Specialised Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander MMM 7	Fixed subsidy – class 1	1.80	Operational places	$437.280*

* For services in these categories, funding per-resident per day is calculated by first working out the total funding for the service for the day to the nearest cent and then dividing that total by the number of residents using this formula:

$$Price \times NWAU \times \frac{Operational\ Places}{Occupied\ Places}$$

Notional funding per “operational place” for calculating the service total uses three decimal places, to reduce rounding effects on the per-resident per day subsidy amounts. Services Australia payment statements report only the service total for services in these categories.

Specific eligibility criteria apply to facilities in MMM6 and MMM7 locations that are determined by the Secretary to specialise in caring for Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander care recipients.

MMM is based on the 2019 Modified Monash Model | Australian Government Department of Health and Aged Care

6. Initial entry adjustment – permanent care recipients

The initial entry adjustment is provided when a new permanent care recipient enters a facility on or after 1 October 2022 to cover the costs associated with transitioning into a new care environment. This funding component is:

Initial entry adjustment	NWAU	Initial entry adjustment per new resident (NWAU x price)
Payable when a permanent care recipient enters a facility	5.28	$1,283.57

7. Respite supplement – respite care recipients

Respite accommodation supplement will be paid for respite care recipients. The rate of the respite supplement will be equal to the maximum rate of accommodation supplement payable for eligible permanent care recipients in the same facility (though without means testing or application of the 40% supported resident rule).

1. 24/7 nursing supplement

The service supplement amount of 24/7 nursing supplement is the sum of the facility amounts (see table) for each of the service's qualifying facilities for the payment period. The facility amount varies with the number of days of eligible care provided at the facility during the payment period.

If, during a payment period, residential care is provided at a qualifying facility through more than one service, that facility amount is apportioned between the services, in proportion to the number of days of eligible care provided at the facility through each service.
